

In Pakistan, some people do not obey the law. They do not stop at a red light, they steal electricity, they cheat in examinations and they do not pay tax on their income.

You may have heard the word "corruption". Corruption takes place when people in authority break a law to benefit themselves or favour someone, so as to receive money or gifts in return. For example, a policeman takes a bribe from a person who broke the law rather than making them pay the prescribed fine. A banker approves a loan to a friend of a minister without following the proper procedure. For doing this, the banker may receive money or other favours.

Each one of us is badly affected when disobey the law.

- The government does not get the money needed to build more schools, hospitals and roads.
- More accidents take place on the roads.
- We have to pay more for electricity.
- Some students do not get the result they deserve in an examination.
- There is an increase in lawlessness.
- There is social and moral damage to society.

In this way, corruption has badly affected the social fabrics of our country. Every person is involved by this menace in any way. We should wipe out this social evil from our society and we should not do any work that could promote corruption and other social evils.

The Government has made proper rules and regulations and different institution such as National Accountability Bureau (NAB), Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) and Provincial Anti-Corruption Departments to curb the curse of corruption at federal and provincial level.

Being responsible citizens, it is our duty to keep safe and make conscious our children, youngsters and family members about this curse, because corruption has become a big deal / challenge for us.
